

Are You Monitoring Progress Effectively? An Excerpt from Our Leadership Development Diagnostic Survey

Are the statements below true of your organization? The more statements that ring true, the more likely that you and your organization have a good understanding of what is working in your leadership development efforts, what isn't, and are prepared to take the necessary steps to make improvements.

- You have established clear goals to guide your leadership development efforts.
- You regularly collect data about your leadership development practices to understand whether they are effective.
- You take action on the data you collect to improve leadership development practices.
- As changes to organizational strategy occur, you update your leadership development goals and practices accordingly.
